

Live-Stream Purchase Agreement

By purchasing the live-stream online webcast of the PPW Event, I agree not to give out or share my unique user password which will be used to access the live-feed.

This means that you will only use the password to display the live-feed web broadcast for those people or groups who are physically present and watching with you. No portion of this feed, whether live, replayed, or held for storage on any website, may be released, replayed, sold, or given away without the expressed written permission of the President of PRI, or its controlling constituents. This policy will be based on a personal accountability metric. In other words, God knows! Violation of this agreement for anyone found to have purchased the online feed may be prosecuted, and will be prohibited from purchasing this option in all future events. Those found to have received the feed from someone else who has purchased the feed may also be prosecuted or penalized. Again, this does not apply to group registrations for those who watch the conference in a group format together in one location.